“ It was a blessing to have grown up with Jeffrey Conkle. He was a very close friend. As we matured into adulthood Jeffrey rose above the rest of our peers by helping me at a very traumatic point in my life. When my parents were dying, Jeffrey was always there volunteering and helping any way he could. He picked up many prescriptions, drove my parents to doctor's appointments, prepared many meals, and med was always there to be my friend. He was certainly a rock during this traumatic time in my life and I was blessed to have known such a great human being. For all of that he was somebody I was fortune to have known. I looked up to him and learned what being a good person was all about. My heart goes out to his brother and all of his family. Ryan Funkhouser
