“ I just saw Anne's Facebook post of Jay's passing. So sorry to hear this. I knew Jay since 1958 when we moved to Gahanna on what was then simply Johnstown Road, a little east of the LePeras. Over the years we remained friends, even though there were long stretches when we lost touch. We reconnected and renewed our friendship around 1992 or 93. We saw each other frequently and had long visits and went to different places. Jay was always warm and full of news about people, always ready to share stories and memories. After he moved to live with his sister and brother-in-law I saw less of him. I stopped driving a few years ago and was unable to visit him but would talk to him on the phone. It was always good to hear his voice. In time I was unable to reach him very often and our contact gradually ceased. I thought of him often and remembered his cheerful and loving kindness. He was full of life and love and he carried that with him throughout his life. I know his family and friends will miss him and cherish the time he was here.

“ Jay was always happy to see me, to talk about what he had been doing, and to share souvenirs of those events. Being with him was a happy experience. But my experiences were not unique. He loved to see and talk with my father, Albert. He loved to be with my sister, Cindy, and with my late wife, Darla. My wife, Judy, and Jay enjoyed meeting each other. There is an encompassing picture here--Jay loved and was loved by the whole family. In an even bigger setting, Jay loved and was loved by many people.

Judy and I are sorry for the loss of this truly unique and remarkable person and offer our sympathy to his caring siblings, nieces, nephews, and all those in Jay's extended family.

“ Jay was a sweet guy, one of my first memories when we moved to Gahanna Heights in 1971. Riding up to our house on his bike frequently, he would share neighborhood news, and made my family feel welcome. Condolences to Eddie, Ann and family.

“ We moved near Jay's home in 1972 and were warmly welcomed by Jay riding his bicycle through the neighborhood. Over the years we had many "bike visits" from this happy neighbor. He always had the best attitude, best sense of humor, and a cheerful heart. Special memories in particular were in the car the year I drove Jay to the band room to volunteer at Gahanna Lincoln High School. We had good talks on the drive to school and many a morning he started my day off with a laugh and a good feeling. He was truly a blessing. My deepest sympathies to Ellen, Marc and all the family. Jay always shared his faith in God and there is no doubt he is making heaven even more joyful than ever. He will be greatly missed. God rest his soul.

“ Growing up in Gahanna I was friends with Jay's brother Bill, and anyone who know's the LePera's know that if you were a friend of one family member you were accepted by all. My memories of Jay are that he was always smiling. God is with Jay now and I am sure he is smiling. God bless. Roger Wilson.
